

Using THIS WAY UP in Your Practice
1	Identify if the patient/client is suitable for a THIS WAY UP course A person is likely to benefit from an online course if they: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Are interested and motivated to learn how to help themselves manage their symptoms. • Have access to online course materials (e.g., reliable internet connection, access to e-mail) and are comfortable navigating the web. • Understand why they were recommended this course and how it might benefit them. • Feel encouraged by their healthcare provider to complete this course. Enrolment in the online course should be delayed for patients who are suicidal or acutely unwell. Concurrent use of benzodiazepines for anxiety or distress is discouraged while doing a course, as this interferes with the development of self-management skills.
2	Introduce the THIS WAY UP course best suitable for your patient's needs For appropriate patients/clients, you could say: “There is an online course offered by the St Vincent’s Hospital, which teaches practical skills and strategies to manage [patient’s symptoms] and could help you work through your difficulties to improve how you’re feeling. You can access it on your computer or smartphone, so you can do it from home. It’s not a quick fix, but if you stick with the course, there’s a good chance it will help you. I can e-mail you instructions for how to access the course.”
3	Email a recommendation for a clinician-supervised course Log in to your THIS WAY UP Clinician Dashboard, select an appropriate course and email the registration instructions to your patient. This will link their course registration to you as their supervising clinician. (NB: users are able to enrol in a different course when they register, so it is good to reinforce why you think a particular course is most suitable for them).
4	Explain how it works Ask your patient to click on the link in the email they receive from THIS WAY UP to start the online registration, the fee will be waived as they are clinician-supervised and they can begin the course by following the on-screen instructions.
5	Provide clinical supervision When you email your patient a ‘supervised’ course via the THIS WAY UP Clinician Dashboard, the patient remains in your clinical care. We recommend scheduling regular consultations as they do the course, especially if their questionnaire scores (e.g., K10, PHQ9, GAD7) are in the moderate-severe range. People scoring in the mild range can often be left to work through the program themselves. People in the severe range will need considerable support, which might include weekly reminder phone calls from the practice nurse, additional consultations, and the use of medication and/or consultation with allied health staff.
6	Review patient progress reports THIS WAY UP courses are typically 6 lessons long and your patient has 90 days to complete the lessons (NB: The Chronic Pain course is 8 lessons with 120 days of access). Prior to each lesson, your patient will complete a K10 (Distress) questionnaire. If the K10 score is 30 or above (the severe range), you and the patient will receive an automatic email notification, and you should contact your patient for assessment or ask the patient to return for an urgent review.
7	Offer regular contact A brief weekly reminder phone call/email/voice or text message from a practice nurse, clinic manager, or receptionist to patients completing an online course leads to better adherence to treatment, which can lead to better outcomes.
